Subject: BDCP meeting

Paul,

I dug out my meeting notes.

I was not remembering properly.

Re the South Sac HCP area, David Zippin said that it a potential area for problems and that BDCP will have to tread lightly in the overlap area.

In response to my "BDCP just use land below sea level" query, David said this was doubtful but they can look into it.

David also said if BDCP has to do something that impacts another plan, then need to make that plan whole (whatever that means)

Also sounded like Stacey McKinley will be setting up a meeting with BDCP soon re South Sac HCPO issues

Regards

John

PS - The Stone Lakes NWR approved refuge boundary includes a long rectangle between I-5 and the abandoned railroad line to the west, extending to a bit south of Twin Cities Road.
There is a comprehensive management plan approved in 2007
